Have Mercy, Have Mercy, Baby, on me! 'Cause from where I'm standing, tell you what I think,

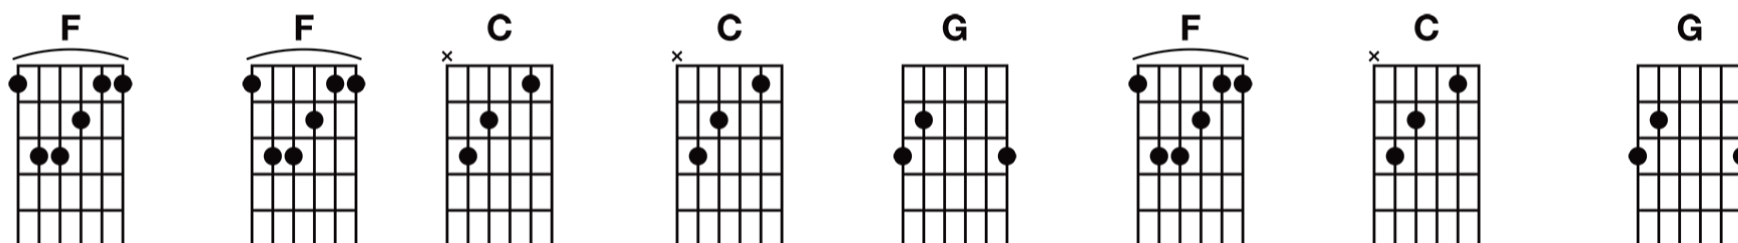

You got everything you need, but the kitchen sink

I went and bought that lady a basket of fruit; She says, "I want the whole tree, not just one ap-ri-coot"

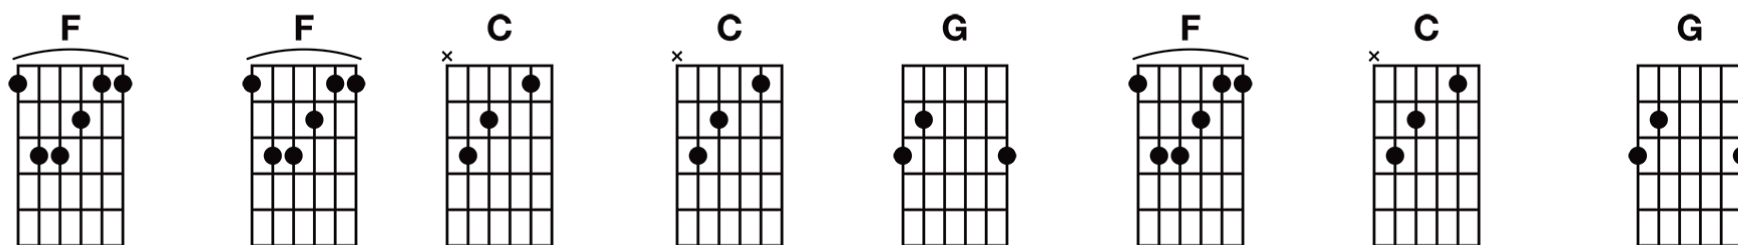

So I planted her an orchard with my own bare hands. She said, "That's just a patch of dirt, man, that ain't no land."

Have Mercy, Have Mercy, Baby, on me! 'Cause from where I'm standing, tell you what I think,

You got everything you need, but the kitchen sink

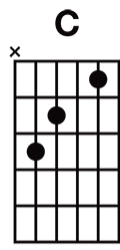

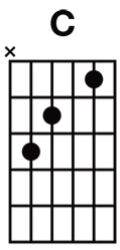

(instrumental)

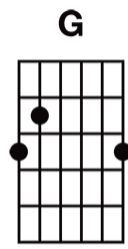

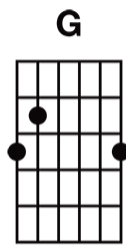

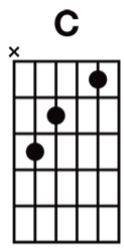

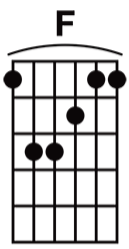

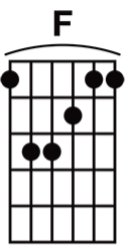

My baby got a sweet tooth, like to clean my bank account

Every sweet thing that I give her, well, she puts it in her mouth

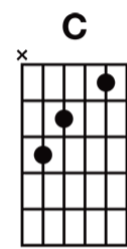

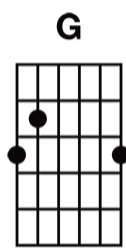

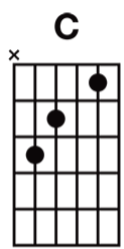

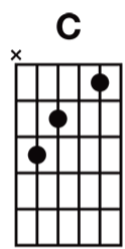

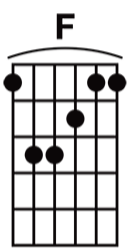

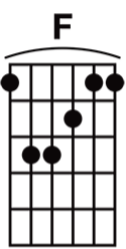

I give her every kind of candy, but she gimme all her jabber,

“I want a Snickers bar with peanuts, and you give me Abba-Zabba.”

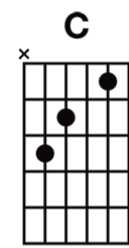

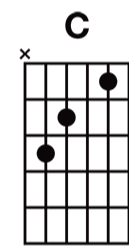

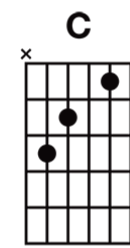

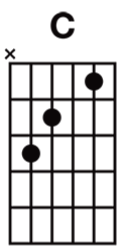

Have Mercy, Have Mercy, Baby, on me! ‘Cause from where I’m standing, tell you what I think,

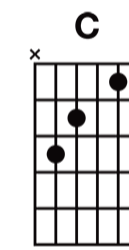

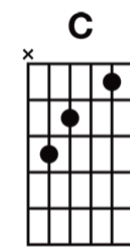

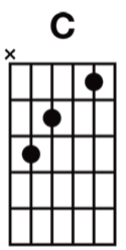

You got everything you need, but the kitchen sink

(instrumental)

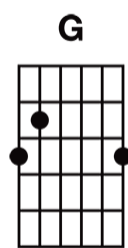

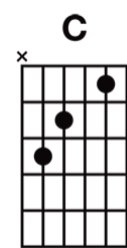

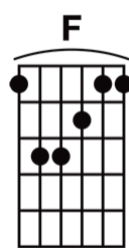

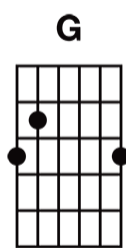

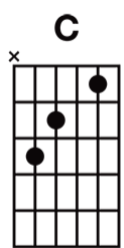

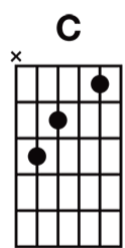

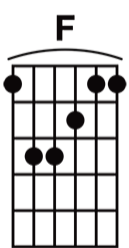

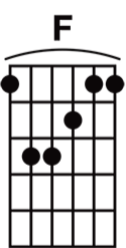

She drive me up the wall, talkin’ ‘bout a wedding ring. She said “I don’t give a hoot about those silly songs you sing.

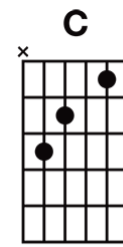

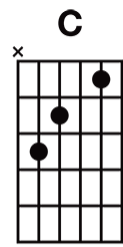

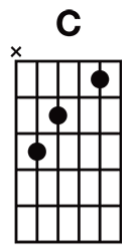

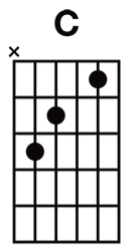

Then she stick her finger in my face and wave it in the air

She says, “You see that empty knuckle? Better put a diamond there!”

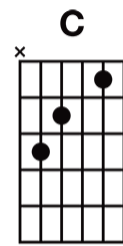

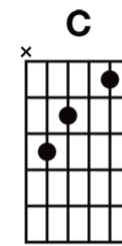

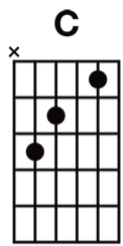

Have Mercy, Have Mercy, Baby, on me! ‘Cause from where I’m standing, tell you what I think,

You got everything you need, but the kitchen sink

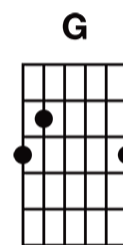

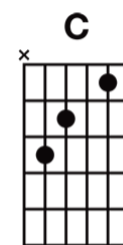

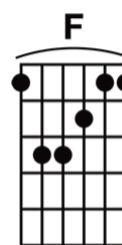

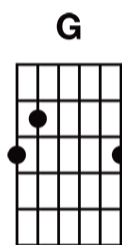

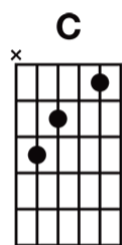

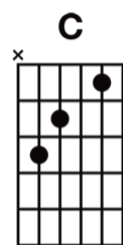

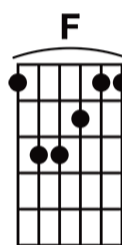

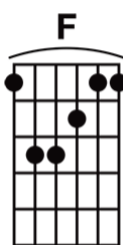

I finally give that girl a ring, but for her that ain't enough

She wants a wedding AND engagement ring, so she can show 'em off

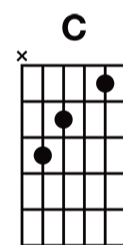

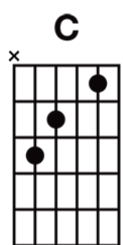

I give her everything she wanted, but despite that matching set, she's waving both her hands and howling,

"I still got eight fingers left!"

Have Mercy, Have Mercy, Baby, on me! 'Cause from where I'm standing, tell you what I think,

You got everything you need, but the kitchen sink

Everything you need, but the kitchen sink!
